Ghassan Salamé is professor of international relations at the Institute of Political Studies (Sciences Po) in Paris and the founding dean of its Paris School of International Affairs. He is currently vice chair of the International Crisis Group’s board of trustees and sits on the board of the Open Society Institute and the council of the International Institute for Strategic Studies. Salamé is the founding chair of the Arab Fund for Arts and Culture, and also serves as a senior adviser to the United Nations secretary-general. Salamé served as Lebanon’s minister of culture, in charge of national heritage and the arts, from 2000 to 2003. His published works include Quand l’Amérique Refait le Monde, Appels d’Empire: Ingérences et Résistances à l’âge de la Mondialisation, and State and Society in the Arab Levant. He also edited the volumes Democracy Without Democrats: Politics of Liberalization in the Arab and Muslim World, The Politics of Arab Integration and The Foundations of the Arab State. His essays have been published in Foreign Policy, Revue Française de Science Politique, European Journal of International Affairs and The Middle East Journal, among others.