Eligibility Requirements

- Egyptian nationals
- Hold a bachelor’s degree from an accredited university in social sciences (business administration, management, political science, law, etc.), engineering (mechanical, electrical, construction, etc.) or science (pharmaceuticals, medicine, computer science, chemistry, etc.)
- Minimum grade point average of 3.2 or rating of “gayed geddan”
- Satisfy AUC graduate admissions requirements, including submission of the AUC graduate application and supplemental documents, as well as any necessary exams
- Submit an international TOEFL IBT exam score or an IELTS exam score meeting the cut-off scores for AUC graduate admissions
- Minimum of two and maximum of 12 years of relevant professional experience after the bachelor’s degree was obtained, preferably in public, nonprofit or international development organizations

To Apply

Step 1
Download and submit the graduate application form at the Student Service Center, AUC New Cairo, or apply online.

Step 2
Complete and submit the online fellowship application.

Step 3
Take the required exams: International TOEFL (IBT) exam either online at www.ets.org OR at AMIDEAST (38 Mohie El Din Abou El Ezz Street, Dokki, Giza — tel 19263) OR International English Language Testing System (IELTS) exam either online OR at the British Council (Heliopolis Branch: 4 El Minya Street, Cairo, Agouza Branch: 192 El Nil Street, Giza — tel 13785)
In May 2011, Yousef Jameel, working with the school of Global Affairs and Public Policy (GAPP), initiated the Yousef Jameel GAPP Public Leadership Fellowship with the objective of building the capacity and competence of young Egyptian nationals in the areas of public policy and public administration and preparing them for leadership roles in Egypt after the January 25 Revolution. By supporting 300 fellows in 12 cohorts of 25 Egyptian graduate students per year, the Yousef Jameel GAPP Public Leadership Fellowship will create a cadre of well-educated, competent graduates ready to take on the responsibility of affecting change in Egyptian society.

Eligible Programs

Master of Public Policy (MPP)
This program prepares students for leadership positions in public service and careers as policy analysts. The mission of the MPP program is to support evidence-based policymaking and better public governance in Egypt and the Middle East by preparing professionals for public service careers with the highest ethical standards, strong competencies in public governance, excellent leadership and communication skills, the ability to develop and use evidence and analysis in public service settings, and a commitment to building a better future for the people of Egypt and the region.

Master of Public Administration (MPA)
The MPA program prepares students for leadership and upper management positions in public service. The mission of the program is to support effective and efficient administration of government and nonprofit organizations and better public governance in Egypt and the Middle East by preparing professionals for careers in public service with the highest ethical standards, strong competencies in public governance, excellent leadership and communication skills, a sound understanding of the use of evidence and analysis in public service settings, and a commitment to building a better future for the people of Egypt and the region.

Master of Global Affairs (MGA)
The MGA prepares students for leadership and positions of responsibility in the areas of global affairs and public policy in governments and international and regional multilateral agencies, as well as in business and civil society organizations. The program aims to provide students with the knowledge and professional skills required for the functioning of the global system in an inclusive manner at international and national levels. Through this program, students gain the ability to participate effectively in the formulation and implementation of policies in their own countries and in supporting, guiding and monitoring action on global affairs at the multilateral level. Ultimately, both their home countries and the global system should benefit from the knowledge acquired.

Master of Arts in Journalism and Mass Communication
The MA in journalism and mass communication is designed to provide intellectual growth and advanced training for persons already engaged in mass media or public information work. Students wishing to specialize in a particular area, such as marketing communication, international business journalism, sociology or political communication are encouraged to design a sequence of elective courses that best meets their interests.

Master of Arts in International Human Rights Law
This program seeks to give students a thorough grounding in the theoretical underpinnings of human rights law and the methods of solid multidisciplinary research that are required for investigating legal issues pertaining to human rights. It is intended for those presently working, or desiring to work in, humanitarian organizations, government departments and agencies concerned with humanitarian issues, or in other public, private and international sectors where there is increasingly a need for persons who have an understanding of the law and legal consequences of human rights within an international framework.

Master of Laws in International and Comparative Law (LLM)
The LLM is intended for law school graduates who seek to acquire the intellectual and analytical tools to intervene critically and effectively in the global policy debates confronting their societies as policymakers, practicing lawyers, judges, academics, activists or international civil servants. The program offers a wide range of courses designed to provide students with the intellectual tools to promote and critically assess economic, social and legal developments.